

Praying. Thankful. & Blessed

It's Mother's Day today and people the world over are celebrating. But, today I'm praying for those who have suffered broken relationships with their mothers. I'm praying for those who have lived their lives never knowing their mothers. I'm praying for mothers whose relationships with their children are fragile. I'm praying for mothers who have lived their lives never knowing their children. I'm praying for mothers whose children have lost their lives.

"Speak up for those who cannot speak for themselves, for the rights of all who are destitute."

~Proverbs 31:8~

On this Mother's Day, I give thanks for all those who have served as mothers. For those who have nurtured, tutored, coached, and cared for others. Those who have sacrificed, worried, and prayed.

"She opens her arms to the poor and extends her hands to the needy."

~Proverbs 31:20~

I myself, am truly blessed to have had a mother who lived a Proverbs 31 life, as she was taught by her mother, and she by her mother before her. I look to Heaven and know that Mother is safe with our Lord. I look to Heaven and know that she's waiting. I look to Heaven and know one day I'll be reunited with her there.

"Her children arise and call her blessed;
her husband also, and he praises her:"

~Proverbs 31:28~
