

Let's Celebrate International Pet Month

As the month of May opens today, we welcome the opportunity to celebrate our sweet and beloved pets during International Pet Month. If you're anything like me, you really don't need a designated month, or even day, to celebrate your beloved fur-kid. But, when there is indeed, a whole month set aside to honour our pups, why not make the most of it?

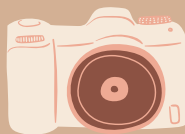

I've put together a short list of ideas to help you spend some paws-itively quality time with your pooch during the month of May.
